WEDNESDAY, June 24, by the New York World Company.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JUAREZ, June 23.—Despite the fact that extensive rebel reverses have been reported, Gen. Carranza is about to begin extensive military operations on his own account, independent of the campaign which Villa is about to open in the vicinity of Zacatecas. This is indicated by private advices received by American and rebel government officials today with the opening battle at Zacatecas believed to be less than forty-eight hours away.

Information which reaches here is to the effect that 16,000 men under Gen. Pablo Gonzales and Gen. J. A. Trevino, whose resignation as Carranza's chief of staff has not been verified, will start south from Saltillo within two days in a desperate effort to take San Luis Potosi before Villa's army can get in there.

There is no information that this, the first major military movement planned by Carranza since the revolution began, is in any way hostile to Villa or inaugurated for the purpose of upsetting his military program, but no steps have been made to conceal the fact that it is to be a race for San Luis Potosi in which all Carranza's supporters ardently hope that Gonzales and Trevino will be winners. It is believed by the latter that if Carranza's personal troops of the Constitutional party reach the junction of San Luis Potosi before Villa reaches there the latter will not be in a position to dominate military movements from that point to Mexico City.

REBEL REVERSES ARE REPORTED.

EL PASO (Tex.) June 23.—Gen. Villa has not burned his bridges behind him in the Zacatecas campaign, but the rains have washed them away. It was announced by railroad officials today that it would take four months to repair the damage done between Chihuahua City and Torreon. In the meantime Villa's forces were reported preparing to attack at once the Central Mexican city. This may be true, however, with Villa's plans to supply his army during the siege.

Local Villa agents today said they even did not know Villa's whereabouts, but supposed that he almost had reached Fresnillo, thirty-five miles north of Zacatecas, where Gen. Natera had maintained headquarters during his unsuccessful investment of the city.

FEDERAL REPORTS.

From the Federal side came a report of Constitutionalist reverses to General Arturo Elias, the Heros Consul here, who sent out a telegram dated at Zacatecas June 23 from Gen. Barron, the garrison commander, which said:

"Yesterdays publication by the press in regard to the defeat of Villa is unfounded. On the contrary, we have dealt the bandits a heavy blow. On this date, they retreated north with great losses of men and munitions."

W. A. STAAB'S MISSION.

William A. Staab of New York, an aviator having agreed to fly to Mexico, arrived here today to secure the release of two aeroplane propellers, which have been prevented from crossing the border by the United States officials. Lt. Col. F. C. Miles, he will re-ship them to Tampico to which he will be sent to Galveston, having received assurances, he said, that this method of entering munitions into Constitutional territory would not be prevented by American authorities.

Villa has no air craft with him at Zacatecas.

GARRISON AT GUAYMAS SAID TO BE DESTINED TO AID BE-SEIGED TOWN.

BY A. F. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ, June 23.—The Federal garrison was preparing yesterday to evacuate Guaymas, according to information received by Ignacio Bonillas, Minister of Communications in the Carranza Cabinet. Mr. Bonillas stopped here today on his way to Sonora after investigating for Gen. Carranza the internal dissensions in Sonora State.

Mr. Bonillas said that many boats of the Pacific Navigation Company, a Mexican corporation, were in Guaymas harbor to take the Federal troops. Guaymas is invested by Indian troops and the Mexican command of Gen. Alvarado, who reported the probable Federal evacuation.

ON BOARD THE CRUISE CALIFORNIA, Mexican (Mex.) June 23.—(By wire to San Diego) The cruiser Cleveland at Acapulco sent word to Rear Admiral Howard, in command of the Pacific fleet, that a boat arriving today containing the second mate and two men from the wrecked American schooner Nokomis bound for San Francisco, which went ashore on Clipper Island, February 21.

By the boat the parliamentary electors of each county in Ulster are to be allowed to decide by vote whether the county shall be excluded from the provisions of the home-rule bill for a period of six years from the date of its passing.

The situation has never been paralleled in parliamentary procedure in the British Isles, but before he had a bill presented to Parliament he amend a measure not yet on the statute book. This was, however, the only means of overcoming the deadlock, as the House of Lords refused to consider the main bill until the full proposals of the government were before it.

AD MEN DISCUSS ETHICS.

BY A. F. NIGHT WIRE.]

TORONTO (Ont.) June 23.—Six sectional meetings were held today by the delegates to the convention of the Associated Advertising Club of America. The keynote of most of the meetings was higher standard of ethics among newspaper publishers and advertising men.

SHORTLY AFTER a Boyle Heights car was held up by two bandits and the conductor robbed, at Gage and Hammel streets early this morning, Patrolman David Blythe saw two men hiding in the trees in Eastlake Park. He accosted them. They fired. The officer returned the attack until a bullet crashed through his right forearm, dead.

At an early hour this morning, a large force of police was thrown out over the eastern section of the city and a vigorous search for the officer's assailants instituted.

"After he was shot, Mr. Blythe ran to a call box at Mission Road and Bristow street, and telephoned the East Side Police Station that he was shot. Taking his revolver in his left hand, he ran back to hunt his quarry.

Officers in uniform responded to the scene and found the officer still on the hunt, his arm bound with a handkerchief. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where the steel villa insisted on continuing his advance toward Mexico City.

The proposed appointment of Eduardo F. Hay as chief of staff was hailed as agreeable to both factions. Hay, now chief of staff to Gen. Huerta in Sinaloa, won his spurs in the Madero revolution. He was the hero of the first battle of Casas Grandes, where he lost an eye. Later he was sent to Europe by Madero on diplomatic mission. He is a civil engineer, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame Ind.

Ydro Fabels, a young attorney of Mexico City, took a conspicuous part in drafting Carranza's notes to the Washington government and to Nicaragua. Fabels is in contact with Mexican mediation conference.

It was predicted here that Luis Cabrera, now in Washington, will succeed him in the Foreign Relations Department. His replacement, however, of Hay and Cabrera, would create a different attitude on the part of the Constitutional government both internally and internationally, it is believed of local observers.

Location at Tembladeras.

BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, June 23.—A relaxation of the tense feeling among the Mexican Federal outposts around Vera Cruz, resulting from a rumor that the American troops were planning an attack, was indicated today by Lt. Col. Ignacio Landa, the Mexicans at the railway gap, sought to restore the transfer point to its old location in Tembladeras.

Lieut.-Col. Landa made no explanation of the recent hostility of the Mexican guards at the gap, saying merely that the wet weather made the present transfer plan hard on the passengers.

DIAZ'S CANDIDACY.

According to Senor Chamorro, former American Minister Weitzel played a part in the selection of Diaz as the Conservative candidate, and he said that Weitzel at the time was accredited to the Nicaraguan Council of State which selected Diaz for President.

Bankers said to have been interested in Nicaragua's finances and the negotiations leading to the peace treaty were invited to explain their interests and transactions.

Brown Brothers and Seligman & Co. of New York bankers alleged to be prominent figures in the control of the Nicaraguan National Bank and the Nicaraguan railways, were asked to bring all papers bearing on those questions. Charles A. Conant of New York, who is known to be one of the financial agents of the Nicaraguan republic, also was invited.

Minister Chamorro of Nicaragua told the committee sentiment in his country was overwhelming in favor of the treaty.

HAMMONDSPORT (N. Y.) June 23.—Several trial flights were made here today by Rodman Wanamaker's trans-Atlantic flying boat America. The trials were successful in proving that the machine flies fast, is well balanced, and is handled almost as easily as a flying boat of less than half its size and weight.

Flights in the America were made by Glenn H. Curtis, Lieut. John C. Ferre and George Hallatt, all of whom were enthusiastic over the performance of the machine than was its designer, Mr. Curtis, however.

"So far as the trials went, the boat did what we expected it to do," said Mr. Curtis. "Our big problem, however, lies in raising another 1,500 pounds from the water. When we have done that I shall be glad to see the results. Before we attempt to fly the machine fully loaded I intend to add some auxiliary water planes now in course of construction. Today's trials give me reason to hope we have made no mistake in our calculations."

SHAMOKIN (Pa.) June 23.—Capt. W. W. Haas, commander of the Nine-tenth Cavalry, U. S. Cavalry, died today.

Following the assassination of President Lincoln, Haas, who bore a striking resemblance to J. Wilkes Booth while on his way to the Clearinghouse, was arrested and imprisoned for life.

The conductor furnished good descriptions of the men. One he described as about five feet, four inches tall, weighed 145 pounds. The man had a sandy mustache and wore a dark cap.

He was described as five feet, nine inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, dressed in a light coat, dark pants and a light cap.

At 12:35 this morning, twenty-three blasts had been exploded against the hall.

The miners apparently ran out of dynamite and a party left for further supplies. Pistol shots were used as signal that blasts were about to be fired when the dynamite supply got low.

The streets in the vicinity of Miners' Union Hall were crowded at an early hour this (Wednesday) morning.

An appeal by Michael McDonald, president of the insurgents' union, urging the miners to disperse, was hardly printed and circulated by thousands, but with little apparent effect.

NEW YORK, June 23.—L. J. Spence, director of traffic of the Southern Pacific Company, issued a statement here today relative to the decision handed down yesterday by the Supreme Court, in what is popularly known as the inter-mountain case.

"The immediate effect of the decision," says the statement, "is largely within the control of the carriers, because the commission is expected to recognize the propriety of the transcontinental lines in advancing the rates to Pacific Coast terminals which are less than reasonable wherever they desire to do so, to a basis that will preserve the rates to intermediate points, the majority of which have been proposed or found by the commission." The unfavorable feature of the decision is the serious restrictions

NITRATE BEDS
WHIM OF NATURE

Chile's Natural Wealth Result of Climate.

Dryness of the Air Caused Their Formation.

Yet Water Is Needed for Their Reduction.

[West Coast Letter:] The importance of Chilean nitrate depends on a curious whim of nature. Nitrogen is needed by all plants and animals, and though the atmosphere is nearly four-fifths nitrogen, few plants and no animals can draw directly on that universal supply. Animals secure their nitrogen through the medium of plants, and most plants must get it from the soil. Some cultivated crops rapidly use up the soil nitrogen, and in such cases the easiest way to maintain productivity is by applying fertilizers. Nitrogenous fertilizers once were made largely from guano, fish scrap, slaughter-house refuse, etc., but their manufacture depends mainly on natural nitrates. This occurs in many parts of the world, but they have been found in large amounts only in the northern provinces of Chile.

For Chile itself no other thing has been more important than nitrate in affecting national progress. Nitrate has led to costly wars which established the prestige of Chile as the leading nation on the west coast of South America.

Chile saltpetre, nitrate, or salitre as it is called, is when pure a glistening white compound, salty and bitter to the taste, like some sea plants, and consists of about one-third amount of moisture. Chemically the substance is sodium nitrate (NaNO_3). Pure nitrate is found only in small quantities or "pockets." Commonly mixed with earthy materials and various saline compounds, it is sold as salt, Glauber's salt, and borax. A small amount of iodine compounds also is present in most cases. This impure material is known as caliche to the nitrate miners.

The mining of these fields lies in two provinces, Tarapaca and Antofagasta, between latitudes 19 degrees south and 27 degrees south. Other deposits doubtless will be found farther south and east. There are no large salt beds in the northern part of Chile, the most northerly province of Chile. The total area of these four provinces (105,000 square miles) is about equal to that of Colorado, and its population (510,000) gives about two per square mile.

THE NITRATE FIELDS.

If the miner works by the day, he is known as a barretor, literally a "crawbar man." If he is paid according to the amount of caliche mined, as the most energetic prefer to do, he is a private or private worker. The former earns about 75 pesos a day, while the latter under favorable conditions, often makes 9 pesos to 12 pesos per day. A group of partakers working early and late, quickly dispels any idea that no people of that part of the world will work hard.

Carts or trains of small dump carts carry the caliche to the mining plant, which is usually a simple affair, with a few tanks, pipes, and a furnace. The nitrate deposits lie along the western side of the pampa's low, flat part, associated with what were once the bottoms of water-filled lakes, either natural or artificial. Lines of flats, covered with dazzling white salt beds, or salares, extend over many square miles. The presence of water is easily determined by a number of little signs of using fire and steel on tinder, particles of any supposed caliche are brought in contact with a strip of burning cotton wicking, or mecha. If nitrate is present, the particles ignite almost at once. An expert can tell the percentage of nitrate present.

SOLUBILITY OF NITRATES.

The nitrate is so readily soluble that the deposit could not exist even in a moderately rainy region, but there is little trouble on the coast in Northern Chile. The high Andes and the cold Humboldt or Peruvian current on the other make Chile north of the thirtieth parallel one of the driest regions in the world.

Some places have no rain at all, desert, without a drop of rain. If absolute desert exists in the world, it lies in the nitrate pampa.

In crossing this region one cannot help feeling the utter helplessness of man in the face of such great masses of waterless and lifeless wastes.

All directions lead to sand, more sand, more sand, even to the border of the ocean itself. One finds at first to understand how dry the air is, but those who go away generally come back again to this apparently limitless desolation. But almost the first day's stay reveals part of the secret.

The heat is unceasing despite the brilliancy of the sunlight.

For the extreme dryness makes temperatures of 90 deg. or more quite comfortable, and the heat is not uncomfortable, even in the middle of summer.

The dry air, however, is a curse, because it dries up everything by high tide.

When crystallization has gone as far as it will, a valve in the bottom of the bath is opened and the liquid is turned off, leaving behind a thick layer of glistening white crystals.

THAT GAS CAT COMES BACK.Commission May Order Natural Product Served.*Companies to Ask Injunction Against Low Rates.*Supply Insufficient to Meet Ordinance Demands.

The nine-lived gas controversy again raised its head yesterday and defied settling. Surface indications at the hearing by the State Railroad Commission of the case of the city against the Southern California Gas Company, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, Economic Gas Company and Southern California Edison Company are that the commission will order these concerns to resume supplying natural gas for domestic consumption here.

Such an order will not definitely settle the controversy, for the commission absolutely refused to take any part in the rate end of the controversy. This is a matter, as Commissioner Thelen pointed out, which the city will have to fight out with the corporations.

"There is a way provided by law whereby you could secure this body's aid in the rate matter," said Mr. Thelen. "Otherwise, the commission is not disposed to interfere on any municipality's right to make rates."

In case the commission, as now seems certain, orders the companies to resume the retailing of both natural gas and the mixed natural and artificial gas, the city will certainly be precipitated into an additional legal entanglement, unless it so amends its rates as to assure the gas companies "a living wage."

The first step of the companies will be to demand that the city from putting into effect the 45-cent rate for natural gas and the 53-cent rate for the mixed article, and while the action is pending, consumers will be forced to pay the rates for the other product. Attorneys for the companies all made it apparent that a legal fight will attend any attempt of the city to put the lowered rates into effect.

Moreover, the Southern California Gas Company, according to Attorney Taylor, will shortly ask the State Railroad Commission for a rehearing of the case in which the 14-cent base or cost of gas rate was set for the terminal terminal. This action follows on the heels of an application made some months ago by the same company for right to make a 13-cent wholesale rate to dispose of surplus supply.

"Things have arisen," said Mr. Taylor, "which make the 14-cent rate too low."

Continuing, Mr. Taylor stated that his company is anxious to secure a market for the natural gas which it brings from the Midway fields, but that it, with the other companies, is averse to distributing the gas for domestic use here, due to the "confidential" rates established by the City Council."

An attempt by City Attorney Stevens to prove that the Southern California Gas Company is preparing to divert natural gas away from Los Angeles to the northern fields, however, failed to convince the commission that no such project is under consideration.

All attempts to bring the rate question into the hearing were fruitless, but Commissioner Thelen's insistence that the commission is not interested in the Los Angeles rate fight.

An effort was made by Attorney Gould, of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, to prove that there isn't a sufficiency of natural gas to either supply consumers here with the unadulterated commodity or for mixing according to the 55-50 formula of the Board of Public Utilities. The manager of the Board of Public Utilities testified that Los Angeles will probably use 4,400,000,000 feet of gas this year. General Manager Blackstaff of the Southern California Gas Company stated that, under present working conditions, between 16,000,000 and 17,000,000 feet of gas can be delivered daily to the Glendale terminal, or over 5,000,000,000 feet of gas yearly.

It was agreed at the hearing that since the natural gas supply was cut off to domestic consumers much of the gas has been used in the making of artificial gas. The past twenty-one days the commission, along with the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation for fuel purposes, has averaged 6,512,500 feet of natural gas daily.

Attorneys in the case are allowed ten days to file the commission to file additional briefs and notations of facts.

INVESTIGATION CLOSING.

Efficiency Commission Will Make Report of Findings to Postoffice Department This Week.

The Efficiency Commission, consisting of Postoffice Inspectors Martin and Knox, and Postal Agent Bushnell, has been in session, in the Federal building for the past three weeks, looking after the institution of reforms in the conduct of the business of the post office. The results of its work this week, and the findings of the body will be immediately transmitted to the Postoffice Department, from where all information must come as to what changes will be contemplated but two branches of the commission, the Postmaster General and the Postmaster General, will remain with the postal work and the local situation.

It is understood that a number of changes will be recommended by the commission, as the outcome of the probe that has been conducted in a quiet way, but the changes will not be important and involve shifting about of several heads of departments, in order to conform to the new idea of postoffice management that contemplates but two branches of the post office. Los Angeles will be the only post office everywhere throughout the country.

It is known that the commission has found but little to criticize in the management of the local office, and the only changes made, so far as local information goes, will involve employees in minor positions.

WOMAN OF THE HOODOO CONFESSES SHE'S CROOK.

PENETRATING the naivete and girlish simplicity which had melted their professional sternness, the police yesterday arrested Mrs. Thelma Cockran, 34 years old, and before their mild inquisition was ended, the woman had given a string of four aliases and confessed to shoplifting, petty larceny, bigamy and child desertion. She has been posing as the woman of the hoodoo, a victim of circumstances.

And when the detectives sought to delve further into the startling details of her career she defied them thus:

"I am only human. I don't like to confess, so you needn't go any further. You can't get more unless you have the goods on me." Not another word.

The confession of the girl bristled with amazing assertions.

"You are wrong, Mrs. Nease," said the girl yesterday, while the police were checked. "You say I took six teaspoons. It was only five."

"It's funny about these business people," she told Juvenile Officer Marden. "You would think they left surreptitiously they took with them silverware, linen and other goods."

"Then she told how she had "worked" practically every cafeteria in the city with the blandishments of her smiles and amorous advances. She was very simple, her sister, she "forgets" her purse, and her confusion at the discovery dispelled all suspicion of the cashiers. None doubted her promise to return the amount of the check immediately.

Her baby was deserted a year ago. The case went into court and the woman was admitted to probation.

HUNDREDS OF BOYS TO VISIT CATALINA FREE.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are flooding the office of the camp manager and with every mail new names are added to the already long list of boys that intend spending their vacation as guests of The Times at The Times Camp.

Santa Ana and Sherman, as well as many of the other near-by towns will be well represented at the camp.

Raymond Poor, Max Watt and William White, three Shermanites, have already signed up for eight-day trips to this campers' paradise, and there are many more from the live little town that contemplates enjoying one of the outings that The Times Camp offers.

The big opening day is Monday and there will be some class to that bunch of boys as they leave the Times Building for the big trip. And say, fellows, if you want to know more about the great big blue book of the live boys around town and you will have to remember.

There will be champ athletes from

CONTRARISSNESS.

A night and a day guard have been placed over a young man for fear he will marry a girl missionary. A good many parents would think themselves lucky in a case like this if the worst came to worst and the boy did marry her. Matrimony is not always a fellow's finish. Sometimes it does the best good. There are some youths that even a missionary could not save, but the right girl can often work miracles with mighty poor material.

GOOD BOOKS THAT SUCCEED.

Some days ago mention was made in The Times of good books that succeed in selling. One of the best books of the year, which is also the best seller of the year, was omitted from the list, "The Fortunate Youth," by William J. Locke.

To the best of our knowledge Mr. Locke never wrote a book that did not succeed; he never wrote a mordacious book nor a cheap book. His ideals are much higher than may reasonably be expected of the novelists, and he adheres to those ideals. He instructs without propagandism; amuses without paradox; builds up the most charming situations with plausible construction, and does not stoop to engage in the dissection of peasant morals; and "The Fortunate Youth" illustrates this as well as any book he has written.

THE LIONS' DEN.

The wonder is that so few people are killed by wild creatures in captivity. We have often thought that a great part of the interest in wild animal performances must lie in their potential danger. People gaze fascinated at a man in a lion's den because they know that death lurks in the watch. Perhaps no one would wilfully attend a performance if they could foresee disaster, and yet it must be this very possibility which lures them there and which gives the act its sensational appeal. The woman who owns the lions that killed Emerson Dietrich and the young man himself were both in Los Angeles a couple of weeks ago and those who met Dietrich liked him for his pleasant nature and good manners. The woman herself said to an acquaintance that she would rather deal with her lions than with some people and that she would trust them further. The unhappy affair will remind some of the woman and the cat in "Simon the Jester," only in that case the woman, who was very beautiful, was disfigured by the petulant and vicious animal.

SAVING THIS SAWDUST.

When the lumber is nailed into the house it represents only 25 per cent of the tree from which it was taken. The Lowell (Mass.) Courier-Citizen says that the forest experts in the Department of Agriculture have been following the tree through its various processes from the time it is cut for use until it is finished lumber. They report that in the logging process 18 per cent of the standing tree is left in the stumps and tops; waste at the saw mill reduces the remaining 87 per cent to 44. Seasoning reduces this to 42; the finished lumber has become 39, and waste in the sawing of boards for the house makes the final per cent 35.

To obtain a greater return from the tree the government urges more attention to the by-products. Tops, bark, slabs and edgings can be made into charcoal, turpentine, tannic acid, wood alcohol, acetate of lime, pulp and paper; while the sawdust will yield wood alcohol.

The United States, long a prodigal nation in the use of its natural wealth, has of recent years begun to give serious attention to conservation in many forms, and the scrap heaps and sawdust piles of past generations will furnish many new industries for the generations now entering the industrial field.

REALISM RUN RIOT. In a version of Othello, lately revived for a London theatrical manager, all the soliloquies and asides have been struck out. This is in reference to the modern rage for stage realism.

Yet no drama acted under artificial conditions can be more real than its setting. As long as the sentiments are genuine and the human nature human, in the dialogue and action the soliloquy and aside are no more artificial than the wings, the footlights, the curtain and the proscenium.

There ought to be a protest raised against the mangling of masterpieces. You have as much right to see into the mind of a character when he is alone on the stage as you have to see into the room where he is seated. The soliloquy is only another fourth wall removed for the purpose of stage representation.

Some of Shakespeare's finest passages are in the soliloquies. Other old favorite plays would be ruined without them. Is Lady Macbeth to walk in her sleep and be as silent as a figure on the screen? Is Hamlet's soliloquy to be cut? Would this content an audience who had seen the original? Is the stage telephone—the realist's refuge—any improvement on the soliloquy?

The objection to the soliloquy is part of the pose of the present artistic faddists, as foolish as the freaks of futurism, as crack-brained as the drunken geometry of the cubists. So in the interest of realism, the up-to-date Hamlet will assume an attitude of deep meditation, while the words of the famous soliloquy are hung on a screen at the back of the stage. "To such base uses may we come, Horatio." In trying by these methods to make a play more natural, we simply succeed in emphasizing its artificiality.

POLITICAL WILSON. There is some hope that the Compromise Wilson raid on the business of the country may receive a check in the Senate. The voice of the people, as expressed by boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other organizations, has reached the legislative hall at Washington in no uncertain tones. Republican and Democratic journals throughout the United States have not hesitated to sharply criticize many of the provisions of the Clayton bill. The proposition to exempt from punishment hand laborers who belong to unions, and submit to punishment brain laborers and hand laborers who do not belong to unions, for doing precisely the same act, does not appeal to many Senators as being either constitutional or just or expedient, and it is not impossible that the anti-injunction and pro-boycott section may be stricken from the trust-busting bill without serious remonstrances from the autocrat whose home is in the White House.

But President Wilson will not so readily relinquish his war upon "big business." The enticement of his self-conceit in pachymatous nothing can pierce it. On this point he is not merely without moral principle, he is without moral perceptions, and he surely is destitute of political sagacity, if not of common sense.

Before Woodrow Wilson was elected President, before he was nominated, he made a number of campaign speeches which were afterward collected and published in a book under the title of "The New Freedom." In that book—page 198—he says: "I do not want to live under a philanthropy. I do not want to be taken care of by the government, either directly or by any instruments through which the government is acting."

That was before Mr. Wilson became (in his own opinion) "the government." It is different now—quite different. On page 61 of the "New Freedom" he says: "I have found out, I have actually found out, that men I consult with know more than I do—especially if I consult with enough of them."

That was before Mr. Wilson was elected. It is different now—oh! ever so much different. Then he quoted Gelett Burgess's verse—

"I never saw a purple cow,
I never hope to see one;
But this I'll tell you, anyhow,
I'd rather see than be one."

Now he would change the last line to read, "I'm very glad to be one."

The Presidency has developed in him a very high order and an immense quantity of self-appreciation. His former modest misgivings have now yielded to his supreme and sufficient knowledge of everything in the heavens above, and the earth beneath, and the waters under the earth.

Now he laughs to scorn the text-books, for he is sure that he knows more on any subject than any text-book that ever was or ever will be printed.

To the lure of the schoolmaster he assumes that he has added the intuitive knowledge of a high-browed statesman and philosopher. He laughs the arithmetic to scorn. He insists that any fraction of a whole number can be made by him greater than the whole's number from which it was taken. He asserts that ten times one will under his able direction, be not ten but twenty. He poses and swells, and hurts great chunks of wisdom at the heads of Underwood and Champ Clark and other recalcitrants. When they inform him that his policies have caused a deficit of fifty millions of dollars in the Federal treasury for the fiscal year he tells them that it is the object of the differential calculus to show how to obtain the various differentials of those simple functions of quantity which are recognized in analysis, whether presented singly or in any form of combination; that such functions are the sum, difference, product and quotient of variables, their powers and roots—potentials, logarithms, direct and inverse circular functions, and they back out of his presence exclaiming, Is he insane or just an ordinary dalmatian?

Mr. Wilson's position is an assault on logic and common sense. To destroy big business by making it a crime for ten men to join their capital to produce and distribute any commodity is inevitably to increase the cost to the consuming public of such commodity. Each of the ten little business men, if he is a manufacturer, must carry an office force, and there are ten sets of clerks and bookkeepers to pay where big business pays but one. The ten little business men must employ ten foremen and ten superintendents where big business employs but one. There will be ten traveling men where big business employs one, and ten columns of newspaper advertising where big business has one column. Each of the ten little business men pays a good deal more than one-tenth of the rent that is paid by big business.

Can you buy a shirt or a hammer or a sack of flour cheaper at a small retail shop than you can at a great department store? Try it and see.

Will little business pay lower or higher wages to its employees than big business pays? If it pays higher wages the consumer will suffer. If it pays lower wages the worker will suffer. If it pays the same wages, still commodities will cost the consumer more, for the cost of rent, of business management and of distribution of products will be much greater.

Destroy big business and cause little business to take its place will benefit just one class of men—the middlemen—and it will benefit none other.

THE INCOME TAX SHORTAGE.

Apparently the first effect of the income tax is to dispel some delusions as to wealth. The wickedly rich are not nearly so rich as they were thought to be; most likely they are not nearly so wicked, either. In the aggregate the tax they are to pay falls off some $24,000,000 from expectation. The revenue experts must have made a blunder running into billions in appraising their incomes!

There is nothing really astonishing about this. The experts had no real basis for their estimate. It was all guesswork, and when we consider the state of inflated imagination which has pervaded the whole income tax movement, from its initiation to the present day, nothing is more natural than that the guessing should have been done on a widely distended scale.

Recent deaths of wealthy men—Mr. Weyrauch, the so-called "lumber king," is an instance—have shown that there has been an absurd popular over-estimation of private fortunes. This inflated ideal seems to They'll Soon be Together.

THE SEX-CENTENARY OF BANNOCKBURN.

BY JAMES MAIN DIXON.

It is just six hundred years today since Robert Bruce won on the banks of the Bannock the victory which gave final unity and independence to Scotland. That was a fateful 24th of June, and all men and women with Scottish blood in their veins should keep its anniversary green. The Scots who conquered at Stirling Bridge and Bannockburn, under Wallace and Bruce, followed leaders neither of whom was Anglo-Saxon, and so it is fitting that our local Celtic Club should celebrate the day. Wallace, as the word indeed signifies, was a Welshman or Cumbrian, and Bruce, pure Norman by his father's side with an infusion of the royal Scot Celto blood, had for his mother Marjorie, heiress of the Celtic Earls of Carrick.

Bannockburn was the crowning triumph of a seven-years' struggle. In 1307 Robert Bruce began the liberation of Scotland from the hated English grip; but for a long time things looked desperate. The opportune death of the first Edward and the slacker ways of his unhappy son helped him out. Gradually, during the spring and autumn months, when the English knights could not get fodder for their horses, the Scots under Bruce, Douglas and others, bold leaders won back stronghold after stronghold that kept the countryside in awe; and at length Stirling, the key to the north, remained one of the few that flew the flag of the three leopards. Unless an English army came to its aid by the eve of St. John, 1314, it must surrender.

So the week ending June 22 saw a powerful English army within sight of the towers of Stirling. It took the old Roman road and was prepared to drive Bruce and his men from the position they had taken up two miles south of the castle. Bruce had fortified his front by digging holes or "pots" on either side of the highway, in which he placed caltrops to lame and disable the horses.

Fighting began on Sunday, the 23rd, with an attack of the English van led by the Earl of Gloucester and Henry de Bohun. But they were repulsed by the Scots. King Robert mounted only upon a mastiff in what was recklessness mood, threw himself in the way of the retreating De Bohun, who was clad in full knight's armor. Then ensued the famous duel in sight of both armies.

As De Bohun bore down on the King with lance at rest, the other swerved aside, and as the knight passed, brought down his battle-axe with such force as to crush helmet and skull. The mortal effect was powerful and immediate, the English retreat turned into a disorderly retreat.

Meanwhile, on the eastern frontier, Randolph had moved down from St. Ninian's Kirk into the "Cause" or plain to block the swift advance of Sir Robert Clifford, riding castledwards with a strong squadron, and with his serried infantry he routed the English cavalry. Thus the first day's events ended disastrously for the Southrons.

Historians have been accustomed to describe the great battle of the morrow exactly in terms of the operations of the 23rd. But recent investigations have completely overturned the conventional treatment; and a brilliant brochure by Mr. W. Mackenzie, M.A., published last year in Glasgow, Scotland, throws a flood of new light on the whole story. Contemporary writers distinctly state that the English army crossed the Bannock, entered the Cause—bordered on two sides by the deep and sluggish Forth—and encamped there. To get into this marshy plain, quite unsuitable for the operations of cavalry, they had to use hurdles at difficult spots on the banks of the Bannock. Once in the "bowls" they were at the mercy of so alert and determined a foe as the Scots under Bruce. With daybreak they should have moved westward up to the higher ground where the Scots were stationed, and have done battle with such force as to crush helmet and skull.

This truth is illustrated by the fate which has befallen several of the statutes which Holy Hiram secured to be passed by his sovereign Legislature.

FOOLISH LAWS. Somebody once said that the best way to secure the repeal of a bad law is to enforce it. But if it is very bad it cannot be, or at least will not be, enforced, for juries and judges cannot be coerced into finding or recommending verdicts of guilty, and the malevolent operations of a bad law will seldom be invoked.

This truth is illustrated by the fate which has befallen several of the statutes which Holy Hiram secured to be passed by his sovereign Legislature.

There is the law to prevent unfair competition and discrimination. Has any attempt been made to enforce it? Is it not true that a law-defying mercantile corporation is selling openly for $2.49 in Los Angeles breeches for which they ask in Pasadena $2.50?

There is the law entitled "Limiting hours of labor for females." Has this intrusion into obstetric practice ever been invoked?

Have not ladies who were patricially aiding to swell the Los Angeles census been suffered without molestation to devote as much or as little time as they pleased to the prenatal preliminary arrangements?

Where has the law for sexualization, or rather asexualization, of insane and criminals ever been enforced in a single instance?

No criticism can be offered of the law to prevent introduction of rabies, for nobody has ever attempted to bring in a mad dog from Arizona, and there are no mad dogs in Arizona to bring in.

There is the law to regulate advertising during strikes and, if there had been, there is no force known to nature that could keep an advertisement of "Help Wanted" out of the columns of any Los Angeles journal, and navies which produce nothing but a chimerical pride in the government that maintains them—and at the end of a few years the navies are turned into junk.

The citizens of this country can scarcely conceive of the weight borne in the form of military taxes by the masses of Europe. Militarism long ago evolved into an extravagant form of patriotic frenzy, especially in England, Germany, France and Austria.

The people are crushed by taxes, the most of it contributed to armies which produce nothing but a certain mirage of safety, and navies which produce nothing but a chimerical pride in the government that maintains them—and at the end of a few years the navies are turned into junk.

And the law to complete and glorify was that it led to complete and glorious war.

There are there few people who are enough to joke over a odd thousand or more of sensible who would not. If that is all there is to it, a young man to die for it is not enough to make him go to war.

LETTERS TO

tage of the opportunity to reply through Mr. Williams, who is going to your city. Your letter you ask me for information on the present movement with Gen. Villa, and if I believe that Gen. Carranza will accept an armistice with the government of Gen. Villa. My answer is, my dear friend, I think it will be a surprise to you, but I am no longer with the troops of Villa, having retired after being greatly disgusted with him after the battles of Bermejillo and Gómez Palacio, where he lost about 200 men in dead and wounded on account of the shameful stupidity of Villa, to wit: Being able to attack the Federal forces in the night, Villa orders his men to pull the bodies of the dead from the field the day, because he had sold the concession to a cinematograph company to take views of the battle. This was a thing that you ought to understand, especially in this country, and the cost us the lives of hundreds of compatriots and all for the ambition of money, which is the dominating passion of Villa. I will retire from here to Durango, living at the Hotel Victoria, in front of the church of Santa Lucia, where I will wait your correspondence.

With respect to Gen. Carranza signing an armistice, I think that it is unnecessary, because, in case it is done, it will be dissolved in a short time that affects future generations and the welfare of the country. As a matter of fact, Gen. Carranza is a natural and understanding man who is not understanding a word that is said to him. In the jubilee chapter of the "Apocalypse," chapter 14, verse 16, it is written: "And he that leadeth into captivity a soul into hell is called 'the hill of robbery'." And he who is leading into captivity a soul into hell is called "the hill of robbery" and that is the meaning of the word "robbery" as the "hill of robbery" is called.

Answer me at once and send me some newspaper from there, and in another letter I will communicate the next happenings if I do not leave here for Guanacaste, Durango. Without more to say at this time, etc.

CUT THROUGH FLOOR.

Burglars Enter a Hill-street Store Through Small Hole and Obtain Much Jewelry.

A burglary which had evidently been carefully planned, was committed early yesterday morning in the jewelry store of H. B. Crouch at No. 768 South Hill street. The thief sawed through the floor above. Jewelry to the value of $4000 was taken, the property left to the police.

The burglar broke into his office of a business college and a hole large enough to admit a small man was cut through the floor. It opened immediately and the burglar, on a balcony, making an easy drop.

Wearing gloves that no finger-print clews might be left, the burglar removed trays from the showcases and took a pair of shears and a pocket knife to an ante-room, made a selection of the most valuable and compact.

Burglars also entered the store of the Burlington Shoe Company at No. 336 South Broadway by prying open a small rear window and a small amount was taken from the cash register.

U. M. ALUMNI PLAN FETE.

Will John With Alumnae Association in Celebrating Commencement Week at Annandale Country Club.

University of Michigan Alumni Association, as well as the alumnae associations of Los Angeles and Pasadena, as well as the alumnae associations of Santa Barbara, San Francisco, and San Jose, will join in a commencement week festivity to be held Saturday at the Annandale Country Club.

The celebration begins at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with a ball game between the lawyers and the students of the University on the composite. Umpires will be Judge W. H. Shenk, Justice N. P. Conrey and Justice Victor E. Shaw.

Following the game there will be a demonstration of field events for former stars. Fat men, lean men and others will be raced. Shot putting, running broad jump, sack and three-legged races are a portion of the program.

The games will be followed by an informal dance. Officers of the local alumni are Daniel Rowan, president; Frank Herald, vice-president; Albert D. Pearce, secretary; L. L. Hollister, treasurer. The Committee on General Arrangements is made up of Arthur J. Abbott, L. R. Rubin and Kimball Fletcher.

THIEF UTILIZES TAXICAB.
Captured, Confesses to Police of Burglary of Cigar Stores—Others Implicated in Theft.

The taxicab thief who early yesterday entered the wholesale house of the Max Roth Cigar Company at No. 545 South Los Angeles street and carried off $1000 worth of goods was arrested and confessed yesterday, according to the police. He gave his name as Joseph Hill. He says he is a butcher.

Later in the day Detectives Beaumont and King, detailed to the case, arrested Bruce Price and Lee Clark, proprietors of a cigar stand at No. 319 South Main street. According to the alleged confession of Clark and Hill, the retail establishment disposed of the cigar brought to it by Hill.

The police found a room at No. 321 East Third street, said to be a denitory of the man involved in the

WOMEN'S WORK,
WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

"No one has a right to attack my motives in presenting 'Damaged Goods,'" said Richard Bennett yesterday, when he addressed a large audience at the Woman's Club House. "It is my conviction that the production of this play has done more to protect future generations than all that has been said or written on the subject."

He defended the right to put such a sermon on morality over the footlights since preachers in the pulpit and writers in the press are silent on the subject. He contended that it is quite time that the conspiracy of silence concerning the most vital thing that affects future generations should be broken.

Gen. Carranza signed an armistice with the government of Gen. Villa, having retired after being greatly disgusted with him after the battles of Bermejillo and Gómez Palacio, where he lost about 200 men in dead and wounded on account of the shameful stupidity of Villa, to wit: Being able to attack the Federal forces in the night, Villa orders his men to pull the bodies of the dead from the field the day, because he had sold the concession to a cinematograph company to take views of the battle.

This was a thing that you ought to understand, especially in this country, and the cost us the lives of hundreds of compatriots and all for the ambition of money, which is the dominating passion of Villa. I will retire from here to Durango, living at the Hotel Victoria, in front of the church of Santa Lucia, where I will wait your correspondence.

With respect to Gen. Carranza signing an armistice, I think that it is unnecessary, because, in case it is done, it will be dissolved in a short time that affects future generations and the welfare of the country.

As a matter of fact, Gen. Carranza is a natural and understanding man who is not understanding a word that is said to him. In the jubilee chapter of the "Apocalypse," chapter 14, verse 16, it is written: "And he that leadeth into captivity a soul into hell is called 'the hill of robbery'." And he who is leading into captivity a soul into hell is called "the hill of robbery" and that is the meaning of the word "robbery" as the "hill of robbery" is called.

Answer me at once and send me some newspaper from there, and in another letter I will communicate the next happenings if I do not leave here for Guanacaste, Durango. Without more to say at this time, etc.

About Birds.

PIGEON MAKES GREAT FLIGHT.Ben Bolt Flies One Thousand Miles With No Stop.*Interesting Facts About a New Sport.*Wonderful Feats of Carrier Pigeons.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Ben Bolt, a carrier pigeon belonging to G. H. Skofield of this city, holds the credit of breaking the record of continued flight for the distance of over 1900 miles.

The bird was sent to the telegraph operator of Reading, Okla., was liberated by him at 6 a.m. on Friday and reached his home a few minutes after 3 p.m. Sunday, having covered a distance of over 1800 miles.

The best that a bird has done before for the distance of 1900 miles, officially known, was two days ago, little more than three minutes and twelve seconds, at Ft. Wayne, Ind., last year.

ANOTHER FAMOUS RACE.

Six years ago, out of twenty-one birds liberated, one "Red Bird" covered the enormous distance between Denver, Colo., and Pittsburgh, in less time than any other. Many of the competitors in that most celebrated race were lost among them "Silver Queen," one of the most celebrated birds of a generation.

Since 1870 dying of homing pigeons has been a common fascinating interest and one that occupied before the general use of wireless telegraphy a special place in the heavy-artillery branch of all armies.

A GOOD SPORT.

Today racing pigeons have returned to the homing pigeons of a pastime, which includes the squarest form of most intelligent breeding of the birds and thoughtful training.

Experience has taught amateurs many features of the sport generally unknown to young enthusiasts, which are important to insure success.

It is unwise, not to say cruel, to force the gallant little fellows to fly more than twenty-four hours.

SMART BIRDS.

The homing pigeon when liberated often flies from its birth, circles about a great height three to five times. If he is a thoroughbred, and wings his way home as straight as an arrow, at the average rate of 110 yards to the minute, for 100 miles, the average speed of 2500 birds a minute for 200 miles or less.

BIRDS HAVE COURAGE.

But at whatever distance from home he may be liberated, the true racer does not stop except for drinking from sunrise to sunset. He sleeps during the day before the second day of his flight. For that reason young or inexperienced fanciers thoughtlessly kill their most courageous birds by longer flights than can be justified, and then wonder why they die of exhaustion in their brave yet hopeless attempt to return to their original home.

The topographical acquaintance of the homing is about a circle of 100 miles. That is to say that within once distance the bird, after circling once to gauge the wind currents, returns home at the speed of over sixty miles an hour.

CARE OF BIRDS.

Any flying pigeon always in the same direction will gradually increase the distance from 100, 200 to 300 miles or more, he seems to become well acquainted with the ground he has covered, remembers the direction and keeps a constant course.

Even a wild bird suddenly liberated at the same distance. Young birds, yearlings, should not be sent over a distance of over 100 miles, although fine records have been made over 300 miles, an extreme maximum.

Birds should be fed and watered before being liberated. They should be sent away as near sunrise as possible, so that they will be in full daylight, as they stop and roost with sunset or early twilight, to take up their task the next day with dawn.

The use of whistles attached to the legs and flight feathers, and the like, to retard flight, and have no terror for pot-hunters, the real enemy of the homing.

BEST TIME TO FLY.

May, June and July are the best months for record flights, as the birds are then in good feather, the home is dry, the weather is cool, and climatic conditions the best in the West at that time.

Fogs seem to disturb the pigeon in flight and he often is lost, deviating from his path, which would indicate that the little understood sense of returning to the original place of birth was due to sight. It will probably be shown some day to have a color vision, and remainders make this an fascinating sport that harmless yet thrilling sport of racing pigeons, which is as fair a game as I know.

WESTERN POLO TO BE RESUMED TODAY.IT'S A. P. NIGHT WIRE!

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) June 23.—With the promise of fair weather for the second match of the tournament of the western circuit of the National Polo Association here tomorrow afternoon, both the Blues of Kansas City and the University Club open their player practice matches today. The sun shone warmly on the Swaps Park field all day and polo experts predicted it would be in excellent condition tomorrow.

Both teams are about even matched, the Kansas Citians being handicapped seven goals and the University Club team six. It was expected that Capt. T. A. Velle of the Blues who received a severe cut on the cheek in Monday's game, could not be able to play tomorrow, but he declared tonight he would play.

He refused to leave the bench when ordered to do so by the umpire. Pitcher Seaton of Brooklyn was suspended for three days and fined $50 for using abusive language to the umpire.

COLLEGE CREWS NEARING END OF THEIR TRAINING

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE!

POUGHKEEPEE (N. Y.) June 23.—The last of the time trials by the crews to represent the Universities of Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wisconsin in the intercollegiate race to be held on the Hudson on Friday were held today. Only the crews of Pennsylvania and Columbia were clocked over the course, the coaches of all the other crews declaring the hard work had been finished and there will be no more time trials.

The Columbia eight rowed the four miles upstream from the finish of the course this evening with Coach Rice agging them on. The crews were aided by an exceptionally strong flood tide and, although the coach would not make the time public, it is believed to have been considerably below twenty minutes.

This afternoon Coach Nickalls called on Coach Courtney and the two talked about their crews. The Cornell coach said his crew had done better than the others, though they had done home and the two coaches agreed that the changes in tide had made a vast difference with the performances of the crews during the past week.

The fastest time the Cornell senior had made over the four miles in practice was a little over twenty minutes, while the Pennsylvania crew is credited with the four miles in 18:58. A little smart mad after an eight-mile row by Cornell this after-

RAIN STOPS PLAY FOR TENNIS TITLE.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE!

ORANGE (N. J.) June 23.—Rain cut short the play in the Middle States championship tournament today on the turf of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. The crowd had a disappointment at the start as R. L. Murray, the California boy who recently won the Metropolitan title, defaulted. He said he had a sore shoulder. The scores of the other main matches were:

First round—K. H. Behr beat Mai. H. Randolph, 6-2, 6-0; T. F. Cooke beat A. C. Bragag, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Second round—T. R. Peil beat W. H. McKinn, 6-2, 6-2; C. M. Bull, Jr., 6-2, 6-1; E. H. Johnson beat F. C. Nickerson, 6-1; J. H. Behr beat F. C. Inman, 6-0, 3-6, 6-1.

Third round—J. J. Armstrong beat Vanderveer, 6-2, 7-5.

TO FIX DATES FOR FAR-WEST TITLES.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE!

PORTLAND, June 23.—Arrangements were completed today for the conference of Western Athletic Association to fix dates and methods of selecting teams for the Far-Western championship meet at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco. As it will be well along in the day before all the delegations arrive, the conference will not begin until tomorrow night. The Northwestern Pacific, Pacific, Southwestern, Intermountain and Rocky Mountain associations will be represented.

There was some discussion this afternoon by local tide experts regarding the tide conditions on Friday, the day of the race. It was agreed that the high water, which is caused for ten minutes after the turn of the tide, will be rowed on the last of the flood tide, the crews rowing down stream against the tide. This conviction is brought about by the first production of the moving pictures made of the race at New London, which used to show the tide crossing the finish line.

These pictures were taken from alongside the judges boat, a position from which an accurate view of the finish could be had.

Harvard University cross-country runners will be able to see the annual Harvard vs. Yale football game at New Haven next fall for the first time in many years, as the event will be run over the Yale shell.

These pictures were taken from alongside the judges boat, a position from which an accurate view of the finish could be had.

Morse and Gillette each presented the crew with a point for the win.

James Morley and George Kirkland are listed for this afternoon's match with Morse and Seymour starring at night. Both Kirkland and Morse are experts of turning tables, any competitor, though each is one game down.

Kirkland's showing against Seymour is figured to be better than that of the work done by Jim while here, as he is actually beat the champion on two occasions, all their opponents may be compelled to extend themselves in order to tally again.

Morse's game against Kirkland is claimed by Morley and others to have been the best ever played in the West. Morley, who has played nearly every three-cushion expert in the country, says it was the best game he ever saw.

Standing of competitors, with their average points per inning, is as follows:

Banks—won 1, lost 0, average .500;

Gillette—won 1, lost 0, average .470;

Seymour—won 1, lost 0, average .502;

Bayne—won 0, lost 1, average .492;

Kirkland—won 1, lost 1, average .470;

Morse—won 0, lost 1, average .470;

High run—Banks, 8.

YEARS VANISH BEFORE LOVE.

Aged Pair Fined Happiness at the Altar.

War Veteran Weds Widow of Another Fighter.

Father Seeking Control of Lovelorn Son.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)

PASADENA, June 24.—A remarkable June bride and bridegroom yesterday began housekeeping in a pretty little vine-covered cottage at No. 725 North Madison Avenue. They are Mr. and Mrs. William McBride, 77 and 66 years old, respectively, and they were married by Rev. L. P. Crawford, a retired Presbyterian minister, 91 years old.

"Why shouldn't we be as happy as any other couple?" both said yesterday. "We've known each other, it is the marry month of June and everything is green and pretty."

Mr. McBride is a Civil War veteran whose first wife died fourteen months ago. Since then he has lived in the house where the couple now make their home and cooked his own meals and darned his own socks. He finally engaged his bride as a housekeeper.

She went to the house in that space of two weeks ago. She is to be married next Saturday morning at the old church where her husband had been divorced from her former husband many years ago and the mother of thirteen children, six sons and three daughters of whom are now living.

The couple are both very young and are not at all troubled by gray hairs, they shily lowered their eyes a bit when they went to the Courthouse to procure their marriage license. With a twinkle in his eye, the old man said, "I hope you'll be here when I give my age as 75 and my wife's age as 65, but he said nobody suspected for a minute that he had done so, as both look younger than they are."

Other residents of the neighborhood yesterday showered the couple with congratulations and in the afternoon Mr. McBride went out to do the shopping. She returned at 5:30 o'clock with a radiant smile and her arms full of groceries.

"We are just as happy as can be," she said as they posed for their picture. "June isn't a month for only young people to get married, I hope to see many happy days together."

Mr. McBride fought in many historic battles, among them Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. He also fought in many Indian battles. At one time he was the driver of a horse car in Philadelphia.

"I am glad," he said yesterday, "that the boozehounds have gone out of fashion. The women were wearing them when I drove those streets, and I tell you I had a time of it crowding them in. There was room for only about six women in the car, unless they crowded together, and when they did, I would have to tell them that they would have to sit nearer together you could hear the hoops crack all along the line."

Mrs. McBride is the former wife of a soldier. She came from Pennsylvania.

The couple thought that since they had both reached a good old age they could do no better than to hunt up the oldest clergyman in the city and have him officiate at the ceremony, which took place at Rev. Crawford's home last Monday.

FATHER WANTS CONTROL.

Francis E. Crawford, father of Lester Crawford, who wants to marry Miss Laura Koppé in defiance to a permanent will, and is now in the temporary guardianship of Chief of Policy McIntyre, obtained an order from Presiding Judge Wood yesterday to have Attorney J. G. Ross apply for the appointment of Chief McIntyre set for hearing before Judge Rivers on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

At the time Mr. Crawford will oppose the attorney's application and ask the court to appoint himself.

Judge Willis appointed Chief McIntyre temporary guardian last Saturday after Mr. Ross failed to get out in his application the time of hearing the application. Mr. Crawford took advantage of this yesterday by filing his motion asking the court to fit the time.

W. W. Gleason of No. 225 South Wilson avenue, an employee in the water department, yesterday afternoon while riding a motorcycle collected an auto on the East Orange Grove and Los Robles avenues and sustained a broken leg.

The City Commission yesterday formally denied the demand made on the city by the San Gabriel Valley Country Club for $12,500 for all damages caused by flood water from the city storm drain. The next step will probably be the filing of a suit against the city.

Chief Police McIntyre yesterday showed the "Golden Hunting" prisoners that was established by his predecessor, former Chief Wood.

A plan is under consideration by the city of exchanging a portion of the Loughery reservoir site in La Canada Valley, the rest of which is owned by former United States Senator Flint, for valuable property that the city owns in the neighborhood of the municipal holdings near Devil's Gate.

The announcement was made yesterday that pay-as-you-enter cars are to be installed on all lines of the Pacific Electric. The change is to be made within two weeks.

Many Masons last night welcomed John D. Murphy, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the State of California, at an elaborate reception at the Masonic Temple.

ENGINEER SYSTEMATIZES DESIGN TO BEAUTIFY CITY OF MONROVIA.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

MONROVIA, June 23.—A map showing every shade tree in the streets of Monrovia was being completed by City Engineer H. Gierlich, and will be used by him to carry on his proposed tree planting campaign. Mr. Gierlich will run the metered before the Board of Trustees at the next meeting. He has secured the consent of the property owners to plant shade trees on all the principal streets of Monrovia, and favors the plan of planting kinds of trees on each street.

At present there are a score of varieties of shade trees planted with scant regard for order.

BRIEF ITEMS.

Mrs. C. T. Askew of Arcadia read the name of her brother, John Edward Matthews, on the list of emigrants who were lost in the steamer of Ireland was swamped in the St. Lawrence River three weeks ago. Mr. Edwards was head steward on the ship, and until last week Mrs. Askew had heard nothing of him. A few days ago, however, she received word from him, stating that he is alive and well, having escaped from the wreck unharmed.

William Van Loenen, for many years a successful building contractor of this city, has purchased a grocery store in Los Angeles, and will take charge at once. Mr. Van Loenen and his family will close their big house at 1601 Wilshire Boulevard, and move to the Lovelace Apartments on Washington street, to be near his new business.

A party consisting of Messrs. Henry Gierlich, Ed Hotchkiss, George Stewart and John H. Gierlich, reported last night from the upper San Gabriel River report excellent trout fishing. Several fish over a foot in length were taken, and Mr. Gierlich landed twenty-seven.

DISLIKE MAYOR'S WORDS.

Signing a manifesto against the proposed "lifting of the lid" in Long Beach on Sunday, almost every minister in the city has protested in writing against the statement of Mayor Wheelton that he favored opening the polls on Sunday. Mayor made the statement at Council meeting last Friday night. Since then the church people have made things interesting for him, for they consider the pool hall the greatest evil in the business section.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

LONG BEACH, June 24.—Seized with a fainting spell after she had lifted her month-old baby from his bath late this afternoon, Mrs. John Cruse, No. 526 Magnolia avenue, cut upon the babe, crushing his life out. When she recovered, she knew not how long afterwards, being alone in the house, she found that her attack had cost little John his life. Dr. Bishop was summoned. He gave it as his opinion that the babe died from suffocation.

Mrs. Cruse is the wife of an employee of the local electric plant. They had but one child. She is prostrated with grief.

Another accident in which a child, John Cage, Jr., 18-months old, was the victim, occurred early this morning. The baby secured strichnine tablets in the bathroom of the Cage home, and ate two or three of them. A physician was called when Mrs. John Cage, his mother, discovered the babe in paroxysms. Dr. Frank Conson, a stomach pump was administered with success. At first the baby's life was despaired of, but tonight he is on the road to recovery. He is a son of the inventor of the Cage submarine.

BODY RECOVERED.

The body of Jesus Mosquita, the Mexican boy who was drowned at Oceanside three days ago, was recovered this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Dr. W. G. Inglesberger of the Western Boat Works was walking along the shore in that vicinity when he discovered the body floating in the water.

He immediately picked it shore and it was taken to the parlor of a local undertaker. The lad was 12 years of age, and had been bathing when he got beyond his depth.

DANGEROUSLY HURT.

Lloyd Tilton was dangerously injured and may die, and George Tilton was slightly hurt late this afternoon when their car hit a concrete post. The car collided at Ocean and Obregon avenues. Tilton sustained internal injuries, a broken shoulder and a bruised hip, while his brother was scrubbed about the face.

The Triton, a boat in an auto being towed to T. Farnham's on Pine avenue, Lloyd Tilton was driving, and attempted to get over the Ocean avenue tracks before the car crossed. The machine was entirely demolished, and the boys thrown out. The Triton was pulled ashore, and when they were recovered, it was learned that they would have to sit nearer together you could hear the hoops crack all along the line."

Mrs. McBride is the former wife of a soldier. She came from from Pennsylvania.

The couple thought that since they had both reached a good old age they could do no better than to hunt up the oldest clergyman in the city and have him officiate at the ceremony, which took place at Rev. Crawford's home last Monday.

CAN'T BLOW UP BURROS; SHOOTS.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

SAN BERNARDINO, June 23.—A woman is connected with the groomsman desert sport of dynamiting burros near Victorville, if the charges against Mrs. Herman Charles are true. A warrant for her arrest was issued today and she will be tried along with the other defendants, Frank Marsh, Horace Southard and Harry Bennett.

The entire town of Victorville is excited over the affair.

It is alleged that Mrs. Charles ordered burros that were trespassing on her property blown up and when the explosion failed to do the work, the animals were riddled with buck shot.

NEW DETERMINATION IN WAKE OF WATERS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CALIXTO, June 23.—With all danger of the present flood past, and a crew to start for Volcane levee tomorrow to close the break bed of the Colorado to avoid all possible damage from the waters of this river in the future.

After the meeting of the Colorado delegation in detail and if it is considered wise to ask the proposed appropriation, a delegation will be appointed to appear before Congress.

Mr. Ross, who was recently in Washington, and who will soon receive a report from the Department of the Interior on the Colorado system, arrived in Calixto today and is again appointed to the delegation.

Mr. Ross expects to receive his report for the meeting Saturday and will be prepared to speak before the delegation regarding both sides of the question.

VENTURA, June 23.—Arrangements are completed for the holding of an old-fashioned county fair at Seaside Park in this city, September 28, 29 and 30. These dates include the San Miguel day celebration in this city, September 29, when the great Lima bean contest will take place. All the children in the county are busy this year growing lima beans for valuable prizes, in order to improve the product. Besides the Landmarks Association will dedicate the rejuvenated Ortega adobe on that date.

At a county fair meeting yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce President Gabbert of the fair directors announced the finding of his aids and workers, J. W. Hitch, F. W. Ewing, William Shibley, F. A. Shipley, Thomas Clark, S. C. Henderson, E. P. Foster, F. E. Davis, W. C. Hendrickson, A. Camarillo, T. A. Rice, John Lagomarsino, Sr., E. G. O'Gorman, J. A. Drinnan, C. J. Montgomery, J. P. Gray, S. NEW YORK, June 22.—Reactuary tendencies persisted today in the stock market, falling, while the market was steadily rising, with a wide variety of stocks. The Supreme Court's decision against the railroads in the Interstate case gave the list its initial setback.

Western railroad stocks, especially the Harriman, were lower. Public utility stocks were also lower.

Bank clearings remained favorable on the stock market.

Arrangements were made today for shipping $60,000,000 gold to Europe, one of the heaviest date in recent years.

Commercial securities, which had been lower during the week, became more general and there were reports of price shading here. Industrialists held up fairly well, but the market was still in a state of dullness. The board market was forced, final price being the lowest. The board market was irregularly traded.

The lowest price was $15,000,000. United States bonds were on call.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.
Chief Engineer Mulholland of the aqueduct has consented to superintend the revaluation and inventory of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation for the city, provided he is given the assistance he desires.

The Police Commission yesterday adopted a resolution calling upon all members of the police department to take active steps for the suppression of vice.

The internal dissensions of the Humane Animal Commission came to light before the City Council yesterday when the removal of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Waddell as secretary.

President Whiffen explained that Mrs. Waddell is mainly engaged on stenographic work, for which she gets $100 per month, while the Finance Committee thinks the work can be done just as efficiently by someone on a salary of $60 per month "and with less annoyance to the commission."

"I'm afraid the Finance Committee has imposed upon me," declared Councilman Bettouski. "There has been a great deal of confusion at the time until Mrs. Waddell took charge of things down there and demonstrated that she could run the pound in a business-like manner. It's intriguing and if you get rid of her you will find out that it is a mistake. She is the only one who has been able to manage the pound and manage it right."

Councilman Snowden opined: "If the institution is simply to catch dogs and cats, all right; but if humans treat them like animals, then it is to be enforced that we want to get rid of Mrs. Waddell. She seems to think that the collection of fees on dogs is the main thing and she ignores the commission and takes no orders from us."

Other Councilmen wanted to investigate, and the subject was continued until next Friday.

Two more blocks in the liquor zone were closed, yesterday by the Police Commission yesterday.

The Public Safety Committee of the Council has decided to recommend that all banners across streets be prohibited.

Members of the City Council of 1909, called yesterday to testify whether or not they had talked with Frank A. Garbutt with reference to the Miner Fill, failed to recall any such conversation, although Mr. Garbutt had been specific. The court would not allow Capt. Louis Hansen to introduce the testimony of ex-Mayor Alexander as to certain alleged promises made in a San Pedro speech previous to consolidation.

At the City Hall.

MULHOLLAND TO TAKE CHARGE.

REVALUATION OF GAS PLANTS SET AS HIS TASK.

Chief Engineer of Aqueduct Agrees to Undertake New Inventories If Council Will Provide Such Assistance as He Desires—MacKay May Be Called from Europe to Aid.

Chief Engineer Mulholland of the aqueduct is to superintend a revaluation and inventory of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation on behalf of the municipality. Mr. Mulholland consented to undertake this task yesterday, after a long conference with Councilmen Bryant and Roberts, a special committee appointed to secure some one to make a further report on the gas affairs, for the purpose of assisting the City Attorney Stephens in sustaining the rates made by the Council and overturning the rates made by the Board of Public Utilities.

Mr. Mulholland's consent is contingent upon the Council providing him such assistance as he deems necessary. Immediately after this consent was obtained the situation was laid before such Councilmen as were available at the City Hall, and was discussed with favor. Details doubtless will be arranged today.

Mr. Mulholland suggested that he would like to avail himself of the services of Roderick MacKay, superintendent of mechanical construction for the water department, who now can visit his old home in Scotland. It is probable MacKay will be called to return immediately.

Members of the Council who have opposed the gas rates as fixed by the Public Utilities Board believe that a revaluation of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's plant, and particularly its mains and pipe lines, will furnish valuable material in their fight to sustain the rates adopted by the Council, and that this is the only hope for a basis of defending that case.

City Attorney Stephens states that suits filed or to be filed can be postponed until the inventories are completed.

As to the length of time that would be required to complete this task, no definite statement is made, although when it was previously discussed it was suggested that at least sixty days would be required. It is probable that if Mulholland undertakes the work, various departments of the municipality will be called upon to furnish assistance as may be needed in the physical work of revaluation and inventory.

VICE SUPPRESSION.

RESOLUTIONS BY COMMISSION.
The Police Commission at yesterday session adopted a resolution requesting the Chief of Police to issue instructions to all members of the police department to take active steps toward suppressing all violations of the law in connection with liquor establishments, gambling, or any moral infractions.

This resolution was adopted by the commissioners after one of the commissioners declared that facts and reports have been presented to him within the past few days that indicate that the members of the police department have been neglecting this line as might be desired, although the commission had done nothing to encourage any member of the department in adopting an attitude of quiescence to violations of the law.

Another resolution adopted yesterday provides that all applicants for available liquor license permits must file with their applications a detailed typewritten inventory of the goods purchased, with a verified statement as to consideration passing in connection with the purchase of the business.

TWO BLOCKS CLOSED.

TO FURTHER LIQUOR PERMITS.

Two more "closed" blocks were added to the list within liquor zone No. 1 yesterday by the Police Commission. One of these is Main street, between First and Second streets, a block that has been notorious for the number of its saloons.

The petition to close this block contained $3.4 per cent of the qualified frontage of 209.87 feet. The total frontage in the block is 366.42 feet, of which $61.05 feet was disqualified by its owners or lessees being either directly or indirectly interested in the honor.

The other block to be closed is further issuance of liquor permits in West Seventh, between Olive and Hill streets. The block has a total frontage of 824.56 feet of which 52 per cent was represented on the petition.

NO BANNERS ACROSS STREETS.

The Public Safety Committee of the City Council decided yesterday to recommend that an ordinance be prepared prohibiting the erection of any banners across the streets of Los Angeles. It will also recommend that the Board of Public Works be requested to grant no more permits for street banners pending the passage of the ordinance.

This is in accord with efforts that have been made by some members of the Council for some time past and a movement taken up by the City Club to rid the streets of unsightly banners.

Recently a large number of applications for street banners have been made to the Board of Public Works by political candidates and there has also been a considerable demand for signs for entertainments, conventions, etc. Most of these banners were desired for anniversary celebrations only last week the Council authorized the board to use its own discretion in limiting the length of time the banners might be displayed, instead of allowing only thirty days.

City Hall Brevities.

The Municipal Club, recently organized for the social, educational and physical betterment of city employees, will hold its first regular meeting in the City Council Chamber at 8 o'clock every evening. Admittance will be delivered by President Headley of the Board of Public Works, and Director Burks of the Municipal Efficiency Commission.

Property owners on Western avenue from Washington street to a point 1400 feet northward, recently deposited with the City Council a certified check for $425.15, in payment of costs the city has already accrued in proceedings for the widening of this street. The Council then transferred the remaining amount of this sum to the administration of this testimony that the suit pending was a matter of public knowledge; that constructive notice must at least be imputed to the defendant that the action was imminent whether or not the trustees had knowledge of this suit in 1912.

Judge Myers sustained the objection, holding that it was immaterial. It is now held, however, that in this contention, namely, that the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, which received a trust deed to this property to secure the issuance of approximately $100,000 in bonds, had no notice of the suit, the city will, provided the lease is found invalid, claim the property without regard to the bonds, the bondholders, therefore, getting absolutely nothing for their investment, only the fact that the money received from the bonds was used in the improvement of the work, and the cost of such improvements would be allowed to the city, who would also be entitled to retain the land and void the lease, such money would not be lost to the corporation.

The objection of the city to allowing the impeaching testimony of Capt. Roderick MacKay, with reference to the denial of the former Mayor Alexander that he had been interrogated during a speech at San Pedro previous to consolidation, was sustained by Judge Myers.

BROTHERS INVOLVED IN CONTEST OVER ESTATE.

A legal fight which involves two brothers, one the sole legatee of Jasper Dutcher, and the other seeking to revoke the probate of Jasper Dutcher's estate with the filing of a petition by Rastus Dutcher, and Mrs. Angie Plath, Mrs. Shirley Hunsford, Harry A. Servine and Mrs. Helen Sager, the latter children of a railroader, a deceased sister of the testator.

Jasper Dutcher, the petition states, left neither wife nor children. His will was probated June 23, 1913, naming Calvin Dutcher as his sole legatee.

The Public Safety Committee decided yesterday to recommend that the Board of Public Works be instructed to place all "city limits" signs at the actual city limits that now exist. Many such signs, it is alleged, are improperly placed.

The Police Commission yesterday

granted a transfer of the social club liquor permit to No. 425 South Hope street from the Los Angeles Chapter of the Institute of Banking to the Los Angeles Club.

Notwithstanding the fact that a large petition is on file with the Police Commission, asking it not to grant any permit for pool halls in the vicinity of Central Avenue, between forty-fifth street, or the vicinity of the Bethel Baptist Church, the commission granted a permit to Lewis F. Hanks for No. 2125 Central Avenue.

A petition was filed with the Police Commission yesterday asking it to grant no further liquor permits for Main street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, and to grant no relocation of permits now held for this block. It is understood that this is intended to head off an attempt to secure a saloon location on one of the corners of Seventh and Main street.

CONVERSATION NOT RECALLED.

FORMER CITY COUNCIL MEMBERS AS WITNESSES.

Testify Miner Fill Work Not Broached in Interview With Garbutt According to Their Recollection—If Lease Is Valid City May Claim Without Regard to Bonds.

Members of the 1909 City Council, called as witnesses by the city in the harbor suit on trial before Judge Myers yesterday testified that they had no recollection of a conversation with Frank A. Garbutt in which the Miner Fill work was broached. The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company brought out Mr. Garbutt's interview with the City Council members to show that the city did have knowledge of this work, and that therefore it was stopped in the present action.

SHOCKED BY BOLT.
lightning Hits Near White House.
incident and Mrs. Wilson Witness the Destruction of Historic Maple.
Executive Mansion Is Shaken to Its Foundation in Electrical Storm.

SOFT WHIR—EXCLUSIVE REPORT.]
ASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 24.—President and Mrs. Wilson and members of their family as well as those of the White House were struck by lightning during the height of the storm yesterday morning. The lightning struck the trunk of the big maple tree just to the west of the south portico of the White House.

At the time the President and Mrs. Wilson were in the living apartments. They were several rolls of thunder, one after another, during the height of the storm. The latter struck the trunk of the big maple, traveled down the trunk of the tree to within about ten feet from the ground, went straight through the roots of the tree into the bark from the trunk. The lightning struck the tree the moment it was struck.

At the time the President
